BENEFITS OF INTEGRATION:

- Main points for eBooks via EDS:
  - All integrated and full text searchable in EDS
  - eBooks are automatically added to EDS – no MARC record download, upload
  - setup PDA (Patron Driven Acquisition)
  - when PDA is used, all books are loaded in EDS automatically, and those that are not purchased are removed automatically after the budget is spent

Discovery Background

First generation discovery services were developed:

- Quickly
- By small development teams
- Using rudimentary relevance algorithms built around searching article titles and words within the full text
- Often as a side project for companies who invest more technical resources into ILS

EDS Background

EDS is next generation technology:

- Years in the making
- Extraordinary technical development resources pre-launch
- By far the main technical focus of EBSCO post launch (EBSCO is not diverted by ILS, instead choosing to partner with existing ILS vendors):
  - 357 of 451 developers & software engineers working on EDS as of 2014
- Sophisticated relevance and value ranking algorithms refined through unparalleled user research

Discovery Service Adoption Worldwide

“ EBSCO stands as the front-runner, with a long lead of 5,612 library subscribers to EDS.

OCLC reports 1,717 libraries with access to WorldCat Local, though a smaller number use it as their primary discovery interface.

Ex Libris has licensed Primo to 1,407 libraries.

ProQuest reports 673 libraries using Summon. ”

PlumX can help answer these questions you couldn't answer before:

What impact has our research had in the past 12 months?

How do we arm our researchers to better compete for funding?

Can we measure non-STEM, non-article research?
